Mr. John Baron,

Dear Sir: In response to your letter, I was a member of the Third Army in Europe in World War II. As a staff officer I headed the Tank Destroyer Section of General Patton's headquarters. You asked my opinion of the General; he was the most brilliant commander in the European Theater. Contrary to some media articles he was very easy to work with provided you were disciplined, thorough, aggressive and willing to work hard. My duties were to inspect T. D. units in the field and to determine what their needs were and to insure that their needs were met.

Am sorry that I have no pictures that I can dispense with.

Sincerely,

Logan C. Berry
