Dear Anna and Ernest:

How are you folks? Hope that the store and the family and everything have all been doing well. For the last few days I have been in to town with Efford to visit his cousin who was hurt in Tunisia. He is almost well enough to leave now. These towns in Africa are all the same -- smelly and dirty, full of crooked streets that go up and down. But they have a good Red Cross here with shows all afternoon and evening and lots of indoor sports and amusements, so I spend most of my time there.

Hope to hear from you soon.

Your brother, Eric
