

AT FORT BRAGG

The five Lawrence men pictured above are stationed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. They are, left to right—Privates Alfred Dumont, John Iovino, Alphonse Pettoruto, Eugene Spinelli and John Gibeau.

The nucleus of a Lawrence colony has been formed at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Five young men from this city are among the thousands of soldiers in training there. They are Privates Alfred Dumont, John Iovino, Alphonse Pettoruto, Eugene Spinelli and John Gibeau. The fact that they were all assigned to the same barracks makes it pleasant for them.

The young men are members of Battery A, 5th Battalion, 2nd Regiment, Field Artillery.

Private Dumont is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Houde, 405 Haverhill street. He was employed at the U. S. Bobbin & Shuttle Co.

Private Iovino, the son of Michael street.

Iovino, 284 Elm street, managed his father's market before joining the army. He is a member of the Lone Star Athletic association.

Private Pettoruto is the son of Mrs. Attilia Pettoruto, 46 Juniper street. He was formerly employed by Bennett, Inc., and is a member of the Pontiac Social & Political club.

Private Spinelli was an employe of the Farwell Bleachery. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Spinelli, 250 Elm street.

Private Gibeau, formerly employed at the A. G. Walton Co. in Chelsea, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gibeau, 101 Franklin street.
