The Vandals

October 19, 2000.

Dear Betty,

Sorry we missed the reunion. this year but we had this trip to Canada planned for a long time as our daughter and son-in-law went with us it was the best time for him to get away from his business. He is very busy most of the year.

I hope the reunion was a success and I'm sure it was. I guess I will find out where and when the next one will be when I get the Tiger Tracks. I hope, and it probably will be, not in September. As we are going to Austria and Italy in September 2001. At my age I don't know why we plan so far ahead.

We had a great time in Canada. We flew to Seattle. Rented a car and drove to Whistler, British Columbia. It is one of the nicest places I have ever been. I would recommend it to anyone. We did a lot of walking, shopping, took a trip to the top of a mountain on a gondola, played golf, and went canoeing down a river and Jean and I turned over twice. Soaked to the gills. By the time we got our canoe back to the rental place the sun was down and we were a little chilly. When we got back home it took us 4 days to recuperate. Jean's arm and leg were bruised. I guess she hit the side of the canoe. But we had a good time and we both said we would do it again.

Betty, I'm sending you some exercise tips:

I joined a health club last year, spent about $400. Haven't lost a pound. Apparently you have to show up.

You should exercise early in the morning before your brain figures out what you are doing.

If God meant for us to touch our toes he would have put them further up our bodies.

I like long walks, especially when they are taken by people who annoy me.

I have flabby thighs, but fortunately my stomach covers them.

The advantage of exercising every day is that you die health-

If you are going to try cross country jogging, start with a small country.

I don't jog, it makes the ice cubes jump out of the glass.

And when all things are said and done, just cut yourself another piece of pie (add a big gob of ice cream if you like) and enjoy the time you have

To the Vandals,

Just a short note to say, I think the Reunion in 2000 went off very well. The Committee in Minnesota did an excellent job in coordinating the reunion and we all appreciated it very much. It was nice to see the group again and I hope you all can make it to Cedar Rapids in 2001

We have decided to go back to the same hotel in Cedar Rapids. We were thinking of going to Davenport as Davenport would give us more places to travel to, but it was the consensus of the group in Minnesota to do more visiting and less traveling. We will have plenty for you to do in Cedar Rapids. We will be working very hard to bring you all a good reunion in Cedar Rapids in 2001.

I keep very busy with the American Legion and other programs.

The Holiday season is upon us and Joan and I Wish You All the Best. We are lucky our children all live within a 50 mile radius of DeWitt.

Dear Mrs. Liegl,

I doubt if I'll be attending the reunion because I am going to have a shoulder replacement this summer.

Enclosed is a donation to Tiger Tracks. I always enjoy

Dear Betty, I am sending a donation for Tiger Tracks. It's fall again. Seems like the summer went fast. Have a few rain showers for a few days, no snow yet November 3. I go play Bingo at the Senior Center. Not much else to do.

Dear Betty,

I've just received the Tiger Tracks and am so sorry to read of Al's death. I'm sure he is missed by many!!

Please pass the enclosed information along to the Vandals. John Griffin passed away very quickly, four months after his 81st birthday and 51 years and 11 months of our marriage. I miss him dearly but am so thankful that Rick and Paul are in Beaufort and Sara is only six hours away. Best regards to all,

November 1, 2000 Greetings Friends and Rela-

In lieu of holiday cards I am sending a note now for two reasons. I am moving into a condo and it is happening on Thanksgiving weekend, which will leave me with little time with all the activities going on during the holidays. The condo

I'm buying is a complex of 88 units and are divided by 4 units and have security entrances. I'm excited to be there - have two sisters living there already and have met several otherpeople by now.

We've had a very nice summer and so far, fall has been beautiful too. Have not had a killer frost so the trees and shrubs are in their typical colors and look lovely. They threaten us with a cold winter coming but we'll just have to wait and see.

I have been doing fine - staying busy with things around the house and hand work, but for the next few weeks I won't have to worry about that. My families are all doing well busy with their jobs, school or whatever.

Was in Spokane this summer with Marlene and Terry and attended a wedding. Chad, my grandson, got married there. Spent some time in Reno with Bill and Gloria as well. Always have a good time there. Had a family reunion in North Dakota - traveled with 3 sisters and spent some time with another sister in North Dakota. The 5 of us had a fun time. Since my family is quite large, I met a lot of cousins that I hadn't seen in years. It was a great time.

Have a Happy Holiday and a Healthy Happy New Year!! Love,

Ann Arneson 700 124th St. SW #48 Everett, WA 98204

Greetings to the friends in the 776 T.D. BN.

I am hoping this newsletter is printed and in the mail before January 2001. I should have gotten my material out a few weeks earlier and to the printer earlier in November. Here it is a few days after Thanksgiving and I am trying to put everything toon the other work. So far we are all doing

O.K.

As you can see by the company pictures somewhere in this paper, that our Reunion was small but I do believe everyone had a good time. We had a good visit with those in attendance.

Plans are underway for the next Reunion in 2001. Unless something changes our tember 14, 15, and 16, 2001 at the Sheraton Hotel in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

We still have the same Hospitality Room we had when we met there in 1994 and 1996. More about that later in our notices that we will be sending out as we finalize our plans.

We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

From all the Liegl family, Betty, Pam, Dennis and Victor and their families.

See you in 2001!

Donations

Thank you to the following for donations to Tiger Tracks after the June 2000 Tiger Tracks. Sorry there were two at the Reunion who gave me donations and I missed writing their names in my notebook. Thank you

776th Soldier Friendships Forged By War

Eating sand, playing horseshoes while fighting was going on, and whiskey rations are just some of the memories recalled by members of the 776th Tank Destroyer Battalion during their unit reunion.

A group of 63 people including 27 veterans of the 776th and their family members met in Killeen Thursday through Saturday for the reunion.

The meeting marked the first time in more than 50 years that the group of men have been together at Fort Hood.

"Our first mini-reunion was in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in 1956," said Leland Elliot of Sun City West, Arizona.

"We were meeting every two years, but last year we decided to start having annual reunions because there are fewer of us each year," the 80-yearold Elliot said ruefully.

The reunion was coordinated by III Corps logistics director Col. Robert Bishop; his wife, Phyllis; and Pat Erickson of Killeen, the daughter of 776th veteran Kenneth "Buck" Bocklund.

TENTS HOUSED TROOPS

Elliot was a 22-year-old native of Kansas City, Mo., accustomed to expansive green fields, when he arrived at Camp Hood in the summer of 1942.

"It was a camp, not a fort then. We were housed in tents because there were very few buildings," he said, recalling the hot, barren surroundings. He estimates the population of Killeen was about 2,000 then.

Elliot said he arrived in Texas shortly after basic training in Fort Knox, Ky., but most of the men were pulled from National Guard or Reserve units from the Midwest, including Iowa, North Dakota and Minnesota

"Most of the men were from field artillery units. They needed tank drivers for the new tank destroyer units, and I was a tank driver," he said.

The men trained together until Christmas Eve, when they were transferred to Fort Dix, N.J., before the journey to Africa.

"We landed in Africa - Casablanca in January of 1943," he said. The unit first took on battles in North Africa near Algeria, then traveled almost constantly from one area to another, fighting in the desert.

"I ate a lot of sand over there," he said, referring to the unit's many desert battles.

The 776th was not attached to a specific unit. Instead, the soldiers went with any unit that needed them. One infantry unit stuck in Elliot's mind.

"We supported a unit that was an all-Japanese-American infantry unit. They were good fighters. They felt they had to prove themselves because of what happened at Pearl Harbor," Elliot said

He reflected on the irony that while the Japanese-American soldiers were fighting overseas for freedom, many of their families back in the United States were in interment camps.

TWO CLOSE CALLS

Elliot counts his blessings as he recalls two of his close calls on the battlefield. One occurred as he was watching an aerial battle, when suddenly another plane headed for his position.

"I was watching a dogfight when someone yelled to look out," Elliot said. He turned to see a plane headed for him.

"I could see the pilot's face - he was smiling," he said, but before he could dive for cover, the plane strafed the area, bullets riddled the ground on either side of him, missing him by mere inches. He did not realize shrapnel had hit him until he felt something warm and wet in his right glove.

"I looked down to see blood running down my arm from a shrapnel cut," he said, pointing to a two-inch scar on his biceps.

Shrapnel had also cut the tow cable of his tank. He had seen a Sherman tank down the road that had "been knocked out of commission" and made plans to retrieve the tow cable from that tank the next day, with the help of three other men.

Call it luck, fate or divine intervention, but Elliot did not make the trip. As he was about to join the men in a jeep, a fourth man jumped into the vehicle, taking his place. On the way the jeep hit a land mine.

"Four men went out and only one came back alive," he said.

The 776th was one of the first units to move into Italy and later saw action in southern France and Germany.

"We endured a lot of hardships together. The fighting, the changing weather and mud - and here we are," Don Anderson said, describing what draws the members of the 776th together for the reunions.

"Our numbers are dwindling, due to death and health reasons that prevent those who would love to come from traveling," he said.

"Widows and family members have always been welcome. We look out for the widows and help them whenever we can," said Anderson, 80, of Green Valley, Ariz.

COMBAT POWER GREW

Anderson was a 21-year-old second lieutenant when he joined the unit. He served as an active-duty soldier for several years and then joined the Army Reserve, from which he retired.

He marveled at the changes he saw, in the shift in air power and the sophistication of the U.S. weaponry as the war raged on.

"In the beginning, whatever little air power we had was support from the British. So when we saw a plane, we knew that 99 percent of the time it was the enemy," Anderson said of the battles in Africa.

"By the time we moved on to Italy, we saw more air power and a total shift when we went into the European Theater. We had to be careful not to shoot down one of our own planes," he said.

Occasionally, the unit would pull back behind the lines to replenish their equipment.

"All the while that the fighting was going on, the equipment improved. Each time we were issued new tanks, they had better guns, were more powerful, more agile on the battlefield," Anderson said.

"The tank destroyer battalions were something new. The Army needed units that were faster and easy to maneuver to take out the German tanks. That's how it got the name tank destroyer," he said.

Foster "Ky" Wolfe, the only member who lives in Killeen, was barely 18 when he transferred into the unit as jeep driver. By then the 776th had moved into France.

"We did recon (reconnaissance) work. It was our job to gather the information on troop movements and then determine what actions would be taken the next day," Wolfe, 74,

"Our crystal radios were not reliable, so we didn't use them to relay the information. We would drive from company to company delivering the orders for the next day," he said of driving around in the dark without maps, never sure if an area might be mined.

In addition to land mines and getting strafed by enemy planes, the patrols never knew when they might encounter the enemy.

"One night, one of our patrols made contact with the Germans. They tried to use their machine guns, but they jammed, so they retreated to repair them," Wolfe said. He said the patrol went out a second time, but the guns jammed again. This time when they returned to the base camp, the Germans followed them.

"All of a sudden, bazookas cut loose from a nearby farm-house. It went on for a while, until finally one of our tanks was able to get around and knock them out," the native of West Virginia said.

The soldiers also recalled times when the soldiers were able to have a little fun, despite nearby gunfire.

"We decided to play horseshoes, so we set up a game and played, even though there was fighting going on not far from us," Elliot said.

When the war was over, the troops busied themselves with preparations to return home, and they were able to unwind.

"We were given whiskey rations - a fifth of whiskey and a fifth of cognac," Wolfe said, recalling the supplement to their regular C-rations. BONDED BY MEMORIES

According to a newspaper clipping Wolfe saved from Stars and Stripes, the 776th was responsible for taking out two of Rommel's M10 tanks and knocking out a Tiger tank. It was also recognized for logging more than 550 combat hours until the German phase of the war ended on May 8, 1945.

The men are bonded by memories and feelings from a shared experience that no one else can completely understand.

"It is a close-knit group. Those who are here have made it to a vast majority of the reunions. We've been through a lot together," Anderson said.

"It's like a big family. Never in my life have I met a bunch of people I liked better," Elliot said.

Honoring All Soldiers Who Fought to Defend American Freedoms

Reprinted with permission from The Baca Weekly Springfield, Colorado Wednesday, May 31, 2000 By Holly Evans

A very moving ceremony was presented by the Campo community to recognize the service given by all soldiers who fought in American conflicts at home and around the globe. Members of the VFW post and the American Legion presented the colors to open the program at the Campo School.

Veterans and children of veterans presented a variety of musical selections intermixed with recitations and addresses. The daughters of Bob Eden, WWII veteran, opened the program with a choral rendition of Blowin' in the Wind.

Veteran Alvin Jenkins then gave a history of the Lincoln family, Abraham Lincoln's assent to the presidency, and the battle of Gettysburg. He then recited the Gettysburg Address in remembrance of Civil Warveterans.

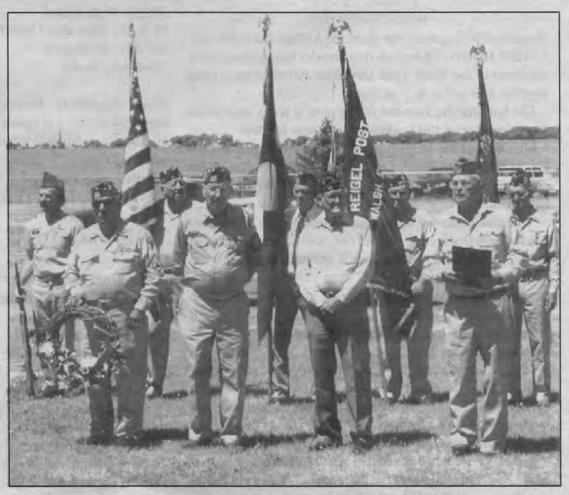

Kevin Espey, grandson of Bob Eden, sang the very moving patriotic song God Bless the U.S.A.

In honor of his father who served in Vietnam, Shane Wait gave a reading In Flander's Field in remembrance of World War I veterans. Jerad Houser, also the son of a veteran, played a selection of patriotic marches on the baritone.

Five grade school youngsters presented a choral reading titled Just a Simple Soldier in honor of all veterans.

Prior to his introduction of State Senator Mark Hillman, Vietnam veteran Kraaier expressed his sentiments about serving in a war zone with this motto posted in his battalion headquarters in Vietnam, "You haven't lived 'till you've almost died...for those who have tasted death, life has a flavor the protected will never know!"

Kraaier introduced Senator Hillman as a supporter of veterans and a member of the State Veterans Affairs Committee. In his opening words, Hillman stated that Memorial Day was more than just the day the pool opens, picnic and outings.

Even though most of us are in our 80s and the temperature is often in the 90s, the members of the veterans organization of Baca County will continue to honor those soldiers who fought to defend our freedom because that is what we believe in, explained Bob Eden at the Memorial Day celebration in Campo. The honor guard laid a wreath on the veterans memorial at the Campo Cemetery on Monday morning.

He continued by saying, "It is the adult's responsibility to see that the youth understand what Memorial Day means."

Hillman continued his message with an overview of the beginning of Memorial Day and the ways in which many groups honor American servicemen. This Memorial Day emphasis has been placed on the POW and the MIAs explained Hillman.

As he read a list of twentythree names of veterans living in the Campo area, Bob Eden pondered that he had never realized how many of his neighbors had answered their country's call. He concluded by explaining that even though many members of the veterans organizations in Baca County were in their 80s and the temperature on Memorial Days often ranged into the 90s, the veterans organizations would continue to honor other veterans on Memorial Day, "Until we die because we believe in it!"

The program was adjourned to the Campo Cemetery where an honor guard placed a wreath on the veterans memorial. The ceremony concluded with a gun salute and the blowing of taps.

Tanks For The Memories

776th Tank Destroyers remember Camp Hood during annual reunion

by Bobbi Easler Herald Staff Writer

Reprinted with permission from the *Killeen Daily Herald*FORT HOOD - More than five decades have passed since members of the 776th Tank Destroyer Battalion have been together as a group on Fort Hood.

The last time the men met on the post, it was Camp Hood in the summer of 1942, when the unit was formed.

Members of the original unit were pulled from National Guard units from North Dakota and Iowa and sent to the newly formed Camp Hood to be trained for tank destroyer battalions.

"The tank destroyer units were something new. The Army needed units that were faster and easy to maneuver to take out the German tanks. That's how it got the name tank destroyer," Don Anderson, 80, of Green Valley, Arizona, said.

A group of 63 people, including the veterans of the 776th and their family members, gathered in Killeen for their annual reunion which began Thursday and ends today as the travelers head home.

The former soldiers were pleased with the "red carpet" treatment they received from Fort Hood.

Their jam-packed schedule began with a formal welcoming to Fort Hood on Friday.

The group visited the displays set up at Hood Stadium for Family Day, ate lunch at a dining facility, took a driving tour of the post and completed the day with a Texas-style barbecue dinner at Belton Lake Outdoor Recreation Area.

On Saturday the group met for the Tank Destroyer memorial service at the 1st Cavalry Chapel and held a wreathlaying ceremony at the Tank Destroyer Memorial.

The group then toured the 4th Infantry Division Museum and then returned to the Plaza Hotel for their business meeting before attending a special mixer and dinner at the Phantom Warrior Club.

The reunion was organized by Col. Robert Bishop, the director of logistics for III Corps, his wife, Phyllis, and Pat Erickson of Killeen, who is the daughter of 776th veteran Kenneth "Buck" Bocklund.

"The colonel and his wife and Pat have done a tremendous job in coordinating this reunion," Anderson said.

"We have always said we will hold the reunion at any location, as long as we have people we can count on to organize it. The Bishops and Pat have really made the trip special," he said.

I am sitting here
With tears in my eyes,
As I think of each
Of those departed guys.

For those whose lives
We often shared.
Because of a special love,
We all really cared.

My head hangs low For those who have gone. We'll meet them again, Before too long.

Old Commanders, that we knew,
For them we'll stand in grand review.
All will stand in honored Salute,
As each flag goes by, for those we knew.

We've saved our Country So that happiness might be. It was a common bond, Between us all, you see.

Each one has earned, a golden star Up in the sky. For those we have loved, Memories, can never die.
